GEORGE H. LOWE, United States Magistrate Judge

OF COUNSEL:

KELLY L. MUNKWITZ, ESQ.
Assistant Attorney General

This matter has been referred to me for Report and Recommendation by the Honorable David N. Hurd, United States District Judge, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b) and Local Rule 72.3(c) of the Rules of Practice for this Court. In this pro se civil rights action brought under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, Jeff Smith ("Plaintiff") alleges that five employees of Upstate Correctional Facility--Deputy Superintendent Robert K. Woods, Captain Joseph R. Belarge, Sergeant G.J. O'Donnell, Food Service Administrator Richard Antonelli, and Correction Officer Wayne Holt

(“Defendants”)--violated his rights under the First, Fourth, Eighth, and Fourteenth Amendments by (1) retaliating against him for having previously filed a complaint, (2) subjecting him to an unreasonable search and seizure, (3) subjecting him to a damaged bunk bed while he was housed in the Upstate Correctional Facility Special Housing Unit, and (4) taking away his “good time” credits without affording him due process. (Dkt. No. 5 [Plf.’s Am. Compl.].)<sup>1</sup>

Currently before the Court is Defendants’ motion for summary judgment (Dkt. No. 37), and Plaintiff’s motion for partial summary judgment (Dkt. No. 38), both brought pursuant to Rule 56 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Because both motions were filed on the same day (February 11, 2005), and neither was filed in response to the other, I construe each motion as a “motion” and neither motion as a “cross-motion.” Both Plaintiff and Defendants have responded to each other’s motion (Dkt. Nos. 42, 45), and replied to the other’s response (Dkt. Nos. 47, 48).

Generally, Defendants’ motion raises six issues: (1) whether Plaintiff has failed to establish (or even state) a First Amendment retaliation claim; (2) whether Plaintiff has failed to state a Fourth Amendment claim, (3) whether Plaintiff has failed to establish (or even state) an

<sup>1</sup> Given my duty to liberally construe a pro se plaintiff’s civil rights complaint, I construe Plaintiff’s Amended Complaint as including a claim that various Defendants violated Plaintiff’s rights under the Fourth Amendment to be free from unreasonable searches and seizures. See Phillips v. Girdich, 408 F.3d 124, 130 (2d Cir. 2005) (“We leave it for the district court to determine what other claims, if any, [the plaintiff] has raised. In so doing, the court’s imagination should be limited only by [the plaintiff’s] factual allegations, not by the legal claims set out in his pleadings.”) [citations omitted]. (See also Dkt. No. 5, ¶ 44 [Plf.’s Am. Compl.], alleging that Defendants Woods and Holt “violat[ed] plaintiff’s 4th . . . Amendment[] rights”], ¶ 15 [alleging that Defendant Belarge “had plaintiff’s personal property searched by three officers, one of whom was Holt”]; Dkt. No. 37, Part 23, Ex. A at 26-28 [Munkowitz Decl., attaching transcript of deposition of Plaintiff, in which he explains his claim under the Fourth Amendment based on the alleged unjustified search and seizure of his property].)

Eighth Amendment claim; (4) whether Plaintiff has failed to exhaust his available administrative remedies regarding his Eighth Amendment claim; (5) whether Plaintiff has failed to establish (or even state) a Fourteenth Amendment due process claim; (6) whether Plaintiff has failed to establish (or properly state) a conspiracy claim; and (7) whether Defendants are protected by qualified immunity. (Dkt. No. 37, Part 25 [Defs.' Mem. of Law].)

Generally, Plaintiff's motion raises three issues: (1) whether Plaintiff is entitled to judgment as a matter of law on his First Amendment retaliation claim; (2) whether Plaintiff is entitled to judgment as a matter of law on his Eighth Amendment claim; and (3) whether Plaintiff is entitled to judgment as a matter of law on his Fourteenth Amendment due process claim. (Dkt. No. 38, Part 3 [Plf.'s Mem. of Law].) Although I liberally construe Plaintiff's Amended Complaint as containing a Fourth Amendment claim, I do not liberally construe his motion as requesting judgment as a matter of law on his Fourth Amendment claim, especially given the burden on a movant under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 7(b)(1) (requiring that movants "shall set forth the relief or order sought," and "shall state with particularity the grounds [for the relief requested]").

For the reasons discussed below, I answer each of the six questions posed in Defendants' motion in the affirmative, and I answer each of the three questions posed in Plaintiff's motion in the negative. As a result, I recommend that Defendants' motion for summary judgment be granted and that Plaintiff's motion for partial summary judgment be denied.

I. SUMMARY JUDGMENT STANDARD

Under Rule 56(e) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, summary judgment is warranted if "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). In determining whether a genuine issue of material<sup>2</sup> fact exists, the Court must resolve all ambiguities and draw all reasonable inferences against the moving party. Schwapp v. Town of Avon, 118 F.3d 106, 110 (2d Cir. 1997) (citation omitted); Thompson v. Gjivoje, 896 F.2d 716, 720 (2d Cir. 1990) (citation omitted).

However, when the moving party has met its initial burden of establishing the absence of any genuine issue of material fact, the nonmoving party must come forward with “specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e); see also Matsushita Electric Industrial Co., Ltd. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 585-87 (1986). The nonmoving party must do more than “simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts.” Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co., Ltd. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 477 U.S. 574, 585-86 (1986); see also Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247-48 (1986). “A dispute regarding a material fact is genuine if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party.” Ross v. McGinnis, 00-CV-0275, 2004 WL 1125177, at *8 (W.D.N.Y. March 29, 2004) [internal quotations omitted] [emphasis added].

Imposed over this general burden-shifting framework is the generous perspective with which the Court must view a pro se plaintiff’s pleadings. “[I]n actions in which one of the parties appears pro se, this Court is faced with the . . . responsibility of granting significant liberality in how pro se pleadings are construed.” Aziz Zarif Shabazz v. Pico, 994 F.Supp. 460,

467 (S.D.N.Y. 1998); see Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519, 520-21 (1972) (per curiam) (pro se pleadings held "to less stringent standards than formal pleadings drafted by lawyers."); Ortiz v. Cornetta, 867 F.2d 146, 148 (2d Cir. 1989). For example, where a plaintiff is proceeding pro se, and the defendant has filed a dispositive motion, the Court must construe the plaintiff's complaint and opposition papers liberally so as to raise the strongest arguments that they suggest. See Weixel v. Bd. of Ed. of City of New York, 287 F.3d 138, 146 (2d Cir. 2002) (motion to dismiss in civil rights case); Burgos v. Hopkins, 14 F.3d 787, 790 (2d Cir. 1994) (motion for summary judgment in civil rights case); Thomas v. Irving, 981 F. Supp. 794, 799 (W.D.N.Y. 1997) (motion for summary judgment in civil rights case).

However, although "[t]he work product of pro se litigants should be generously and liberally construed, . . . [a pro se litigant's] failure to allege either specific facts or particular laws that have been violated renders [an] attempt to oppose defendants' motion ineffectual." Kadosh v. TRW, Inc., 91-CV-5080, 1994 WL 681763, at *5 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 5, 1994). In other words, "[p]roceeding pro se does not otherwise relieve a [party] from the usual requirements to survive a motion for summary judgment." Bussa v. Aitalia Line Aeree Italiane S.p.A., 02-CV-10296, 2004 WL 1637014, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. July 21, 2004) (citations omitted), accord, Durrant v. Selsky, 251 F. Supp.2d 1208, 1211 (W.D.N.Y. 2003) (citations omitted).

II. STATEMENT OF MATERIAL FACTS

The facts set forth in a defendant's Rule 7.1(a)(3) Statement of Material Facts will be taken as true to the extent those facts are supported by the evidence in the record<sup>3</sup> and are not

To “specifically controvert[]” each of the statements of material fact in a defendant’s Rule 7.1(a)(3) Statement of Material Facts, a plaintiff must file a response to the Statement of Material Facts that “mirror[s] the movant’s Statement of Material Facts by admitting and/or denying each of the movant’s assertions in matching numbered paragraphs” and that “set[s] forth a specific citation to the record where the factual issue arises.”<sup>5</sup>

Portions of the record sufficient to create a “factual issue” include affidavits or verified complaints (which are treated as affidavits for purposes of summary judgment).<sup>6</sup> However, to be affidavit may be conclusory because its assertions are too general.<sup>10</sup> However, even where an affidavit's assertions are specific (e.g., with respect to time, place, persons, events, conversation, etc.), that affidavit may still be deemed conclusory if it is (1) "largely unsubstantiated by any other direct evidence" and (2) "so replete with inconsistencies and improbabilities that no reasonable juror would undertake the suspension of disbelief necessary to credit the allegations made in the complaint."<sup>11</sup> Indeed, it has long been the rule in the Second Circuit that "issues of

Here, Defendants have filed Rule 7.1 Statement of Material Facts, and supporting affidavits and exhibits. (Dkt. No. 37, Parts 2-25.) Plaintiff has filed a response to Defendants’ Rule 7.1 Statement. (Dkt. No. 42, Part 1.) In addition, Plaintiff has filed (1) declarations and exhibits in opposition to the affidavits of Defendants Woods, Belarge, Holt, Antonelli, and Holden (Dkt. No. 42, Parts 1, 3), and (2) a verified Amended Complaint (Dkt. No. 5). Finally, because Plaintiff is proceeding pro se and this is a civil rights action, I will consider, in evaluating Plaintiff’s response to Defendants’ motion for summary judgment, Plaintiff’s declaration and exhibits in support of his motion for partial summary judgment. (Dkt. No. 38, Parts 1, 4.)

I address Plaintiff’s responsive documents in more detail below. However, a few general observations are appropriate here. Plaintiff’s Rule 7.1 Response contains hardly any citations to the record, much less any citations to admissible evidence; rather, to the extent that Plaintiff’s Rule 7.1 Response contains any citations at all, those citations are often to other portions of Plaintiff’s Response or to his Amended Complaint (which are, themselves, conclusory), or to exhibits that do not support his denial of the fact asserted. Moreover, his Declarations and verified Amended Complaint are often argumentative in nature (in violation of Local Rule 7.1[a][2]) and not based on personal knowledge (but only hearsay or pure speculation). Finally, his Declarations and verified Amended Complaint are often conclusory and replete with inconsistencies and improbabilities.

For example, he asserts that “[a]t no time did [he] possess[] [Inmate Alcivar’s] legal materials other than [the times when he and Inmates Lipman and Robles approached Defendant Holt with such materials].”<sup>12</sup> However, his own letters and deposition testimony contain repeated representations that he was, at other times, in possession of such materials.<sup>13</sup>

Similarly, he asserts that the documents allegedly discovered by Defendant O’Donnell in Plaintiff’s “cube” on August 31, 2002, were in fact “the exact same materials intercepted by

No. 37, Part 7 [Ex. Woods through the U.S. mail.”<sup>14</sup> However, those documents contained copies of two letters--dated July 4, 2002, and July 16, 2002--from Plaintiff to Inmate Alcivar’s two daughters.<sup>15</sup> Plaintiff offers no explanation as to why Inmate Alcivar’s daughters would be returning copies of those letters to Plaintiff between August 19, 2006, and August 31, 2002--the time period during which Defendant Woods allegedly intercepted Plaintiff’s mail.<sup>16</sup>

Generally, I find such assertions by Plaintiff to be too incredible to be believed by reasonable minds.

Accordingly, the following material facts, even when viewed most favorably to Plaintiff, are supported by evidence in the record, and are not specifically controverted by Plaintiff:

Background

1. From July of 2002 until November of 2002 (the time period relevant to the allegations contained in Plaintiff’s Amended Complaint), Plaintiff was an inmate in the care and custody of the New York State Department of Correctional Services (“DOCS”), incarcerated at the Greene Correctional Facility (“Greene C.F.”).<sup>17</sup>

6. On or about July 4, 2002, Plaintiff wrote and sent a letter to Inmate Alcivar's two daughters about Inmate Alcivar's pending federal civil rights action.<sup>23</sup> In pertinent part, the letter stated,

I am writing to inform you of my assistance to Peter [Alcivar] in the above referenced matter [case number 9:01-CV-1198] where he has a Section 1983 of the U.S.C.A. Civil Rights complaint against the Department of Correctional Services now pending in the United States District Court for the Northern District of New York; that is if he (Peter) hasn't already told both of you that I am helping him with the filing of his motions, etc. . . .

Getting right to the point for the purpose of writing you, and letting you know what is going on with Peter's case. There is [sic] two inmates that Peter trusted with his papers and other legal documents, that is one inmate that housed [sic] in the same dorm as him and myself. . . .

I have already wrote [sic] to the court on June 24, 2002, informing said court as to Peter's current situation . . . . See copy of the letter addressed to the court . . . . enclosed with this letter I am writing you. . . .

Peter told me that you have copies of all his papers, those of which are the same as the papers I have here. . . .

[I]f you wish . . . you all could come to the facility to see me, I would then go over the case with all of you, tell all of you what I know from Peter, the research that I have done for him and the list of cases of authority that I have and would cite in his motions and use at trial; I also could give you all of his legal documents right there . . . .

III. ANALYSIS

A. Whether Plaintiff Has Failed to Establish (or Even State) a First Amendment Retaliation Claim

In their memorandum of law, Defendants argue that Plaintiff has failed to establish (or even state) a First Amendment retaliation claim against Defendant Antonelli because (1) he fails to establish that he had been engaging in speech or conduct that is protected by the First Amendment, and (2) in any event, he fails to establish a causal link between that protected activity and any adverse action against him by Defendant Antonelli. (Dkt. No. 37, Part 25 at 15-16 [Defs.' Mem. of Law].) Liberally construed, Plaintiff's response papers argue that (1) he had a constitutionally protected liberty right to make an oral and written complaint about Defendant Antonelli's management of the prison mess hall, and (2) as a result of Plaintiff's complaints (and an "encounter" between Plaintiff and Antonelli one week before Plaintiff's disciplinary hearing), Defendant Antonelli retaliated against Plaintiff during Plaintiff's disciplinary hearing by, among other things, depriving Plaintiff of his statutorily protected right to receive "good time" credits (which would have accelerated Plaintiff's release on parole). (Dkt. No. 42, Part 2 at 9 [Plf.'s Response].)

Claims of retaliation like those asserted by Plaintiff find their roots in the First Amendment. See Gill v. Pidlypchak, 389 F.3d 379, 380-81 (2d Cir. 2004). Central to such claims is the notion that in a prison setting, corrections officials may not take actions which would have a chilling effect upon an inmate's exercise of First Amendment rights. See Gill, 389

F.3d at 381-383. Because of the relative ease with which claims of retaliation can be incanted, however, courts have scrutinized such retaliation claims with “skepticism and particular care.”

Colon v. Coughlin, 58 F.3d 865, 872 (2d. Cir. 1995); see also Flaherty v. Coughlin, 713 F.2d 10, 13 (2d Cir. 1983). As the Second Circuit has noted, [t]his is true for several reasons. First, claims of retaliation are difficult to dispose of on the pleadings because they involve questions of intent and are therefore easily fabricated. Second, prisoners’ claims of retaliation pose a substantial risk of unwarranted judicial intrusion into matters of general prison administration. This is so because virtually any adverse action taken against a prisoner by a prison official—even those otherwise not rising to the level of a constitutional violation—can be characterized as a constitutionally proscribed retaliatory act.

Dawes v. Walker, 239 F.3d 489, 491 (2d Cir. 2001) (citations omitted), overruled on other grounds, Swierkewicz v. Sorema N.A., 534 U.S. 506 (2002).

To prevail on a First Amendment claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, a Plaintiff must prove by the preponderance of the evidence that: (1) the speech or conduct at issue was “protected”; (2) the defendants took “adverse action” against the plaintiff—namely, action that would deter a similarly situated individual of ordinary firmness from exercising his or her constitutional rights; and (3) there was a causal connection between the protected speech and the adverse action—in other words, that the protected conduct was a “substantial or motivating factor” in the defendants’ decision to take action against the plaintiff. Mount Healthy City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ. v. Doyle, 429 U.S. 274, 287 (1977); Gill, 389 F.3d at 380 (citing Dawes v. Walker, 239 F.3d 489, 492 [2d. Cir. 2001]). Under this analysis, adverse action taken for both proper and improper reasons may be upheld if the action would have been taken based on the proper reasons alone. Graham v. Henderson, 89 F.3d 75, 79 (2d Cir.1996) (citations omitted).

Here, Plaintiff's claim fails for several reasons. I acknowledge that the First Amendment protects, not only the filing of written grievances and complaints, but, under some circumstances, the making of oral complaints to corrections officers.<sup>69</sup> However, even assuming Plaintiff had a constitutionally protected right to make both written and oral complaints about Defendant Antonelli, no evidence exists establishing (or even suggesting) that any complaints by Plaintiff against Defendant Antonelli impacted Defendant Antonelli's disciplinary decision.

For example, no evidence exists that Plaintiff submitted any grievances or complaints against Defendant Antonelli, only that he submitted a letter to Deputy Superintendent Eldred complaining about "Mess Hall Dishwashing Machines" approximately three weeks before the disciplinary hearing.<sup>70</sup> Plaintiff's letter did not mention Defendant Antonelli.<sup>71</sup> In any event, no evidence exists indicating that Defendant Antonelli knew about any grievances against him by Plaintiff at the time of Plaintiff's disciplinary hearing.<sup>72</sup> Similarly, no evidence exists that he ever confronted Defendant Antonelli with an oral complaint about the mess hall—other than Plaintiff's vague and uncorroborated assertions that he “met” with, or had an “encounter” with, Defendant Antonelli about the mess hall before the disciplinary hearing.<sup>73</sup> Finally, the record evidence establishes that Defendant Antonelli could, and indeed would, have reached the same disciplinary hearing decision (and imposed the same penalties) despite any such complaints or grievances by Plaintiff (i.e., based upon the evidence as presented to him at Plaintiff's disciplinary hearing decision).<sup>74</sup>

<sup>74</sup> (See, supra, Statement of Fact Nos. 22-23 [stating evidence upon which Defendant Antonelli based his hearing decision, and fact that the decision was affirmed on appeal].)

As a result, I recommend that the Court dismiss Plaintiff's First Amendment retaliation claim.

B. Whether Plaintiff Has Failed to State a Fourth Amendment Claim

I do not construe Defendants' memorandum of law as expressly arguing that any Fourth Amendment claim asserted by Plaintiff should be dismissed for failure to state a claim under Rule 12(b)(1) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which permits motions to dismiss for "lack of jurisdiction over the subject matter" of a claim. However, I do construe that memorandum of law, as well as defense counsel's questions of Plaintiff during his deposition, as suggesting that Plaintiff has failed to assert a Fourth Amendment claim (regarding the search of his property by Defendants at Greene C.F.) over which federal courts have subject matter jurisdiction.<sup>75</sup>

Under Rule 12 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, "[w]henever it appears by suggestion of the parties or otherwise that the court lacks jurisdiction of the subject matter, the <sup>75</sup> (Dkt. No. 37, Part 25 at 8-9 [Defs.' Mem. of Law, addressing the conclusory nature of Plaintiff's claims about a "conspiracy" against him, the subject of which included the search of his property]; Dkt. No. 37, Part 22, Ex. A at 14 [Munkwitz Decl., attaching transcript of Plaintiff's deposition, in which defense counsel stated, "I don't see how the [F]ourth [A]mendment gives you a right to be free from harmful situations. So I would like you to explain that to me," and Plaintiff stated, "[T]he [F]ourth [A]mendment does not apply to the specific paragraph that you are referring to," i.e., Paragraph 43 of the Amended Complaint], 22 [in which defense counsel asked, "Is there anything else in your second cause of action . . ." other than a due process claim, and Plaintiff answered, "Not at this point, ma'am" even though that cause of action cites the Fourth Amendment], 26 [in which defense counsel asked, "You have a constitutional right to be free from search and seizure as an inmate?" and Plaintiff answered, "As an inmate, no, ma'am"].) See Clissuras v. CUNY, 359 F.3d 79, 81 n.3 (2d Cir. 2004) (treating a "suggestion" to the court, in the form of a letter, that subject matter jurisdiction was lacking as a request for a dismissal order under Rule 12[h][3]).

court shall dismiss the action.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(h)(3). Thus, the Court has a duty to examine whether or not it has subject matter jurisdiction over Plaintiff’s attempted Fourth Amendment claim.

Here, I find that the Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction (pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 or otherwise) over that claim, which is asserted in Paragraphs 44 and 15 of Plaintiff’s Amended Complaint.<sup>76</sup> Specifically, the allegations contained in Paragraph 15 of his Amended Complaint are the sole factual basis for Plaintiff’s Fourth Amendment claim.<sup>77</sup> In pertinent part, that paragraph alleges that on “August 31, 2002, 11:20 A.M., Belarge . . . had plaintiff’s personal property searched [for Alcivar’s materials] by three officers, one of whom was Holt . . .”<sup>78</sup>

The problem with Plaintiff’s Fourth Amendment claim is that, even if the search occurred as Plaintiff alleged, that search was of a prisoner’s cell (or “cube”). “[T]he Fourth Amendment proscription against unreasonable searches does not apply within the confines of a prison cell.”

<sup>76</sup> (See Dkt. No. 5, ¶ 44 [Plf.’s Am. Compl., alleging that Defendants Woods and Holt “violat[ed] plaintiff’s 4th . . . Amendment[] rights”], ¶ 15 [alleging that Defendant Belarge “had plaintiff’s personal property searched by three officers, one of whom was Holt”]; Dkt. No. 37, Part 23, Ex. A at 14-22, 26-28 [Munkowitz Decl., attaching transcript of deposition of Plaintiff, in which he explains his claim under the Fourth Amendment based on the alleged unjustified search and seizure of his property].)

<sup>77</sup> (Dkt. No. 37, Part 22, Ex. A at 14 [Munkowitz Decl., attaching transcript of Plaintiff’s deposition, in which Plaintiff stated, “[T]he [F]ourth [A]mendment does not apply to” Plaintiff’s first cause of action], 22 [in which defense counsel asked, “Is there anything else in your second cause of action . . .” other than a due process claim, and Plaintiff answered, “Not at this point, ma’am” even though the cause of action cites the Fourth Amendment], 28 [in which defense counsel asked, “Are you alleging that the facts in paragraph 15 give rise to a constitutional claim for search and seizure?” and Plaintiff answered, “Yes, ma’am”].)

Hudson v. Palmer, 468 U.S. 517, 526 (1984).<sup>79</sup> Nor does the Fourth Amendment proscription apply within the confines of a prison “cube.”<sup>80</sup> Indeed, Plaintiff appears to recognize this point of law.<sup>81</sup>

I note that I do not liberally construe Plaintiff’s Amended Complaint as asserting a Fourth Amendment claim against Defendant Woods for (allegedly) unreasonably searching and seizing various pieces of Plaintiff’s outgoing and incoming mail in August of 2002. However, even if I did so construe that Amended Complaint, I would conclude that this Court would not have subject matter jurisdiction over that claim. The only portion of Plaintiff’s Amended Complaint that regards such a search and seizure by Defendant Woods of Plaintiff’s mail is vague and conclusory.<sup>82</sup> Even taking as true Plaintiff’s allegations, the mail in question consisted of clearly identifiable contraband (e.g., legal materials belonging to Inmate Alcivar in packages to, or from,

Supp. 609, 611, 613 (W.D.N.Y. 1992) (granting defendants’ motion for summary judgment, in part because prison officials have same need, and right, to search prisoner’s “cell” as his “cubicle”).

persons bearing the last name of Alcivar).<sup>83</sup> I fail to see how any search and confiscation of such contraband would have violated the Fourth Amendment. Indeed, such a search and confiscation would appear to have been expressly authorized by DOCS Directive No. 4422 (which regards the Inmate Correspondence Program).<sup>84</sup>

As a result, I recommend that the Court dismiss Plaintiff's Fourth Amendment claim.

C. Whether Plaintiff Has Failed to Establish (or Even State) an Eighth Amendment Claim

In their memorandum of law, Defendants argue that Plaintiff has failed to establish (or even state) an Eighth Amendment claim because (1) Plaintiff has not established (or even alleged) a deprivation that is “sufficiently serious” for purposes of the Eighth Amendment, and (2) he has not established that Defendants were deliberately indifferent to Plaintiff’s health or safety. (Dkt. No. 37, Part 25 at 11, 13-14 [Defs.’ Mem. of Law].) Liberally construed, Plaintiff’s response papers argue that (1) he has established a deprivation that is “sufficiently serious” through his evidence that he experienced a back injury while in SHU as a result of his “twisted bunk,” and (2) he has established such deliberate indifference through his testimony that he orally

<sup>83</sup> I note that the alleged “interception” by Defendant Woods of these packages was preceded by a letter from Plaintiff to Woods referring to “documents [belonging to Inmate Alcivar] being in [Plaintiff’s] possession” and referring to Inmate Alcivar’s family members. Furthermore, I note that the alleged contents of these packages would have reasonably appeared (at the very least) to consist of contraband (i.e., allegedly being the same documents that later gave rise to three disciplinary charges against Plaintiff, which charges resulted in a conviction that was affirmed on appeal).

<sup>84</sup> See, e.g., DOCS Directive No. 4422, § III.B.17. (“Inmates shall not be permitted to use their correspondence privileges to solicit . . . services, or goods.”), § III.G.1. (“All incoming general correspondence will be opened and inspected for . . . photocopied materials, or contraband.”) (5/18/02).

complained to Defendants Woods and Belarge (as well as others) of his back injury and the fact that they “ignored” his complaints. (Dkt. No. 42, Part 2 at 13-15 [Plf.’s Response].)

“[A] prison official violates the Eighth Amendment only when two requirements are met. First, the deprivation must be, objectively, ‘sufficiently serious’ . . . . [Second,] a prison official must have a ‘sufficiently culpable state of mind.’” Farmer v. Brennan, 511 U.S. 825, 834 (1994). “In prison-conditions cases that state of mind is one of deliberate indifference to inmate health or safety . . . .” Farmer, 511 U.S. at 834.

With regard to the first element, “the plaintiff must demonstrate that the conditions of his confinement resulted in ‘unquestioned and serious deprivations of basic human needs’ or ‘deprive inmates of the minimal civilized measures of life’s necessities.’” Davidson v. Murray, 371 F. Supp.2d 361, 370 (W.D.N.Y. 2005) (citing Rhodes v. Chapman, 452 U.S. 337, 347 [1981]). “As recognized by the Supreme Court in Rhodes, ‘the Constitution does not mandate comfortable prisons,’ . . . and conditions that are ‘restrictive and even harsh . . . are part of the penalty that criminal offenders pay for their offenses against society.’” Davidson, 371 F. Supp.2d at 370 (quoting Rhodes, 452 U.S. at 347, 349).

With regard to the second element, “[i]n prison-conditions cases [the requisite] state of mind is one of deliberate indifference to inmate health or safety . . . .” Farmer, 511 U.S. at 834. “[D]eliberate indifference describes a state of mind more blameworthy than negligence.” Id. at 835. “Deliberate indifference” exists if an official “knows of and disregards an excessive risk to inmate health or safety; the official must both be aware of facts from which the inference could be drawn that a substantial risk of serious harm exists, and he must also draw the inference.” Id.

1. Sufficiently Serious Deprivation

Plaintiff alleges that he was diagnosed with “spondylolisthesis”<sup>85</sup> in September of 2002 as a result of sleeping on a defective bed.<sup>86</sup> As far as I can tell from available reported decisions, all federal courts faced with evidence of such an injury on a dispositive motion in a prisoner civil rights case explicitly or implicitly assume, for the sake of argument, that the injury constitutes a serious medical need.<sup>87</sup> I do not make such an assumption here because, unlike the prisoners in those other civil rights cases, Plaintiff does not allege that his Eighth Amendment deprivation consisted of his “spondylolisthesis” but his defective (or “twisted”) bunk bed. In addition to being supported by the express language of Plaintiff’s Amended Complaint,<sup>88</sup> this reading of Plaintiff’s allegations is supported by his testimony in his deposition that he is not asserting a

<sup>85</sup> “Spondylolisthesis” is defined as “forward movement of the body of one of the lower lumbar vertebrae on the vertebra below it, or upon the sacrum.” Rowland v. Hildreth, 92-CV-6140, 1993 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 10233, at *35, n.6 (S.D.N.Y. July 27, 1993) (citing Stedman’s Medical Dictionary at 1456 [25th ed. 1990]).

<sup>86</sup> (Dkt. No. 5, ¶ 27 [Am. Compl.]; Dkt. No. 38, Part 4 at 58-62 [Plf.’s Motion for Summary Judgment, attaching medical records repeatedly stating “spondylolisthesis”]; Dkt. No. 37, Part 23 at 54-58 [Munkowitz Decl., attaching transcript of Plaintiff’s deposition testimony, in which Plaintiff describes his injury generally].)

<sup>87</sup> See Villante v. N.Y. State DOCS, 96-CV-1484, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26279, at *4, 8-9 (N.D.N.Y. March 28, 2002) (Mordue, J.), adopting report-recommendation, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS, at *11-12 (N.D.N.Y. Oct. 26, 2001) (Homer, M.J.); Rowland, 1993 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 10233, at *13-16, 30; Smith v. Umar, 89-CV-6988, 1989 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14170, at *4-6, 8-10 (E.D. Pa. <sup>88</sup> (Dkt. No. 5, ¶¶ 35, 37, 38, 43 [Am. Compl.], alleging that Defendants--who are non-medical personnel--violated Plaintiff’s Eighth Amendment rights by placing him in, and keeping him in, SHU, despite knowing of the allegedly substandard conditions there, which included his allegedly defective bunk].)

claim that the medical staff was deliberately indifferent to any serious medical need.<sup>89</sup>

This is apparently why Defendants, in their motions papers, do not challenge Plaintiff's allegation that he suffered from "spondylolisthesis," but do challenge his allegation that he was assigned a bunk bed that was in any way defective.<sup>90</sup> In support of that argument, Defendants submit evidence that none of the bunk beds to which Plaintiff was assigned while in SHU (1) showed any visible defects (much less the defect that Plaintiff alleges, i.e., being "twisted") at or after the time in question, and (2) were either complained about by other inmates or repaired at or after the time in question.<sup>91</sup>

More convincing, however, is the temporal disconnect between the onset of Plaintiff's back injury and his assignment to the allegedly defective bunk bed in question. Although Defendants do not appear to argue that the onset of Plaintiff's injury pre-dated his assignment to the allegedly defective bunk bed,<sup>92</sup> there is evidence indicating that Plaintiff's back injury existed before he was assigned to the allegedly defective bunk bed (i.e., Bunk Number "OS-A1-20(b)") on September 23, 2002.<sup>93</sup> There is even evidence indicating that Plaintiff's back injury existed

Even if Plaintiff were alleging that his back injury existed before September 6, 2002, but that his injury was exacerbated by his various bunk beds while in SHU, I would reach the same conclusion. As I described above, the first element of the Eighth Amendment's two-part test is "objective," not "subjective." Simply stated, the Eighth Amendment does not mandate "comfortable" bunk beds.<sup>95</sup> For these reasons, I find that Plaintiff has failed to establish a "sufficiently serious" deprivation for purposes of the Eighth Amendment.

2. Deliberate Indifference

Even if Plaintiff had established a "sufficiently serious" deprivation for purposes of the

<sup>94</sup> (Dkt. No. 38, Part 4 at 58-62 [Plf.'s Motion for Summary Judgment, attaching medical record printed on 9/9/02 containing a typed notation, apparently entered on 8/23/02 stating, "Reason for Consultation: H/O sciatica type pain which has responded to PT in the past. I request a repeat treatment series for 6 weeks" and noting that Plaintiff was 51 years old at the time] [emphasis added].)

<sup>95</sup> See Faunce v. Gomez, No. 97-16943, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 22703, at *3 (9th Cir. Sept. 14, 1998) (affirming district court's grant of summary judgment to defendants in part because the plaintiff's Eighth Amendment claim was premised on his complaint that his mattress was uncomfortable and his bedding was insufficient); Page v. Kirby, 314 F. Supp.2d 619, 620 (N.D. W. Va.) (dismissing prisoner's Eighth Amendment claim premised on complaint that his mattress was uncomfortable); Levi v. District of Columbia, 92-CV-2653, 1993 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1948, at *5 (D.D.C. Feb. 24, 1993) dismissing prisoner's Eighth Amendment claim premised on complaint that his mattress was uncomfortable).

Eighth Amendment, I would find that he has not established that Defendants acted with deliberate indifference to Plaintiff's health or safety.

To the extent that Plaintiff alleges that any of the Defendants "knew" that Plaintiff would be assigned to an allegedly defective bunk (Bunk Number "OS-A1-20(b)" in Cell "A1-20") before Plaintiff began his incarceration in the Greene C.F. SHU on September 6, 2002, I find that those allegations are wholly conclusory and without any evidentiary support whatsoever in the record. (Dkt. No. 5, ¶¶ 35, 37, 39, 43 [Am. Compl.].)

However, Plaintiff also asserts (rather conclusorily) that Defendants knew about the allegedly defective bunk after Plaintiff was assigned to it.<sup>96</sup> More specifically, Plaintiff submits testimony that (1) he orally complained to Defendant Woods about the bunk in question on or about September 27, 2002, (2) Plaintiff orally complained to Defendant Belarge about the bunk in question on September 18, 2002, and (3) Plaintiff orally complained to other corrections officers about the bunk in question at various other times.<sup>97</sup> Setting aside the lack of any testimony (of which I am aware) that Plaintiff ever orally complained to Defendants O'Donnell, Antontelli or Holt, there is a fatal flaw with Plaintiff's reliance on this evidence.

The problem is that, even if this evidence is true, there is no evidence that Defendants or anyone "ignored" Plaintiff's oral complaints. Indeed, the evidence shows that Plaintiff was

No. 42, Part 1, ¶ 14 [Plf.'s Response to Woods Aff., swearing that his oral complaint to Woods was made on September 27, 2002] with Dkt. assigned to the allegedly defective bunk bed for only about two weeks (between September 23, 2002, and October 7, 2002), and that he was then moved in response to his oral complaints.<sup>98</sup> Any assertion by Plaintiff that Defendants Woods and Belarge, upon hearing Plaintiff orally complain about the bunk, told Plaintiff to “[t]ell the officer about it” or “tell it to the officer on the unit” does not indicate deliberate indifference by supervisors such as Defendants Woods or Belarge, especially given that Plaintiff was subsequently then purposely assigned to a different bunk.<sup>99</sup>

In addition, the evidence shows that no one at Greene C.F. in any way interfered with the prompt and adequate medical care provided to Plaintiff regarding his back. Plaintiff acknowledges that his medical care at Greene C.F. included the following: (1) a CAT scan on October 17, 2002, and second CAT scan at some point between October 22, 2002, and December

Any assertions by Plaintiff to the contrary are purely conclusory, self-contradictory, and frankly too incredible to be believed by reasonable minds. (Dkt. No. 5, ¶ 28 [Am. Compl., alleging conclusorily that his verbal complaints about his bunk bed “went unsolved”]; compare Dkt. No. 37, Part 23 at 58 [Munkowitz Decl., attaching transcript of Plaintiff’s deposition testimony, in which Plaintiff testifies that he was assigned to the same bunk bed during his entire stay in SHU] with Dkt. 11, 2002, (2) physical therapy on October 24, November 5, November 8, and November 18, 2002; (3) an MRI examination on January 10, 2003; and (4) being provided “pain killers” on September 13, 2002, five packets of Naproxen (500 mg. each) on December 11, 2002, and more “pain killers” on or after January 10, 2003, along with a back brace.<sup>100</sup>

Finally, I note that the evidence shows that, on October 24, 2002, Greene C.F. officials shortened Plaintiff’s stay in SHU 15 days (reducing his sentence in SHU from 90 days to 15 days).<sup>101</sup> Under the circumstances, I find that no reasonable fact-finder could conclude, based on the record before me, that Defendants acted with deliberate indifference to Plaintiff’s health or safety.

As a result, I recommend that the Court dismiss Plaintiff’s Eighth Amendment claim.

D. Whether Plaintiff Has Failed to Exhaust His Available Administrative Remedies Regarding His Eighth Amendment Claim

In their memorandum of law, Defendants argue Plaintiff has failed to establish that he exhausted his available administrative remedies regarding his Eighth Amendment claim because he acknowledges that he did not file a written administrative grievance with respect to the alleged condition of his bunk bed. (Dkt. No. 37, Part 25 at 11-13 [Defs.’ Mem. of Law].) Liberally construed, Plaintiff’s response papers argue that (1) no administrative remedy was available because a complaint about a defective bunk bed is not a grievable matter, (2) even if a complaint about a bunk bed were a grievable matter, he was misled by the Supervisor of the Inmate

Grievance Resolution Committee (“IGRC”) into believing that the matter was not grievable, and (3) in any event, although he did not file a written grievance regarding his bunk, he filed several oral complaints regarding the bunk (i.e., to Defendant Woods, Defendant Belarge, the IGRC Supervisor, and various other corrections officers and/or sergeants). (Dkt. No. 42, Part 2 at 13-15 [Plf.’s Response].)

The Prison Litigation Reform Act of 1995 (“PLRA”) requires that prisoners who bring suit in federal court must first exhaust their available administrative remedies: “No action shall be brought with respect to prison conditions under §1983 . . . by a prisoner confined in any jail, prison, or other correctional facility until such administrative remedies as are available are exhausted.” 42 U.S.C. § 1997e. The Department of Correctional Services (“DOCS”) has available a well-established three-step grievance program:

First, an inmate is to file a complaint with the Grievance Clerk. An inmate grievance resolution committee (“IGRC”) representative has seven working days to informally resolve the issue. If there is no resolution, then the full IGRC conducts a hearing and documents the decision. Second, a grievant may appeal the IGRC decision to the superintendent, whose decision is documented. Third, a grievant may appeal to the central office review committee ("CORC"), which must render a decision within twenty working days of receiving the appeal, and this decision is documented.

White v. The State of New York, 00-CV-3434, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18791, at *6 (S.D.N.Y. Oct 3, 2002) (citing N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. Tit. 7, § 701.7). Generally, if a prisoner has failed to follow each of these steps prior to commencing litigation, he has failed to exhaust his administrative remedies. Rodriguez v. Hahn, 209 F. Supp. 2d 344, 347-48 (S.D.N.Y. 2002); Reyes v. Punzal, 206 F. Supp. 2d 431, 433 (W.D.N.Y. 2002).

However, the Second Circuit has recently held that a three-part inquiry is appropriate where a defendant contends that a prisoner has failed to exhaust his available administrative remedies, as required by the PLRA. See Hemphill v. State of New York, 380 F.3d 680, 686, 691 (2d Cir. 2004). First, “the court must ask whether [the] administrative remedies [not pursued by the prisoner] were in fact ‘available’ to the prisoner.” Hemphill, 380 F.3d at 686 (citation omitted). Second, if those remedies were available, “the court should . . . inquire as to whether [some or all of] the defendants may have forfeited the affirmative defense of non-exhaustion by failing to raise or preserve it . . . or whether the defendants’ own actions inhibiting the [prisoner’s] exhaustion of remedies may estop one or more of the defendants from raising the plaintiff’s failure to exhaust as a defense.” Id. (citations omitted). Third, if the remedies were available and some of the defendants did not forfeit, and were not estopped from raising, the non-exhaustion defense, “the Court should consider whether ‘special circumstances’ have been plausibly alleged that justify the prisoner’s failure to comply with the administrative procedural requirements.” Id. (citations and internal quotations omitted).

1. Availability of Administrative Remedies

Plaintiff admits (repeatedly) that he filed no written grievance about his bunk bed.<sup>102</sup> He argues, however, that no written grievance could have been filed, because a defective bunk bed is not a grievable matter. In support of this argument, he offers only conclusory assertions, testimony containing (at best) inadmissible hearsay, and documents that are completely immaterial to the fact in question.<sup>103</sup> Defendants, on the other hand, offer the affidavit of IGRC Supervisor Marilyn Berlin, who swears, inter alia, that “[c]omplaints about maintenance issues and cell conditions [such as defective bunk beds] are proper subjects of grievances.” (Dkt. No. 48, Part 6, ¶ 3 [Berlin Aff.].) As a result, I must reject Plaintiff’s unsupported assertion that a defective bunk bed is not grievable.

This does not end the inquiry, however, because “a remedy that prison officials prevent a prisoner from utilizing is not an ‘available’ remedy under [the Prison Litigation Reform Act].” Miller v. Norris, 247 F.3d 736, 740 (8th Cir. 2001), cited by Abney v. McGinnis, 380 F.3d 663, 669 (2d Cir. 2004) (holding that “[t]he defendants’ failure to implement the multiple rulings in [plaintiff’s] favor rendered administrative relief ‘unavailable’ under the PLRA.”). More specifically, case law exists supporting the proposition that, assuming plaintiff was instructed by prison officials, contrary to prison regulations, that he could not file a grievance, and plaintiff indeed did not initiate the grievance process by filing that grievance in reliance on that misrepresentation, “the formal grievance proceeding required by [the prison grievance system] was never ‘available’ to [plaintiff] within the meaning of [the PLRA].” See Brown v. Croak, 312 F.3d 109, 112-113 (3d Cir. 2002), cited by Giano v. Goord, 380 F.3d 670, 677 n.6 (2d Cir. 2004).

Here, however, I can find absolutely no evidence in the record before me that IGRC

<sup>103</sup> (See, e.g., Dkt. No. 42, Part 2 at 13-15 [Plf.’s Response Mem. of Law, in which Plaintiff appears to argue--without any citation to evidence--that he orally complained about his bunk bed to an unidentified IGRC Supervisor, whom Plaintiff alleges orally informed him that a defective bunk bed is not a grievable matter]; Dkt. No. 37, Part 23 at 60, 63, 65 [Munkowitz Decl., attaching transcript of Plaintiff’s deposition, apparently alluding to the same hearsay remark by the IGRC Superintendent]; Dkt. No. 38, Part 4 at 50, 52, 54, 66 [Plf.’s Motion for Summary Judgment, attaching, as exhibits, documents regarding Plaintiff’s grievance about the grounds for his disciplinary conviction and not his allegedly defective bunk bed].)

Supervisor Berlin (or any prison official at Greene C.F.) at any time advised Plaintiff that a defective bunk bed is not a grievable matter. Again, in support of his argument that the IGRC made such a remark to him, Plaintiff offers only vague testimony containing (at best) inadmissible hearsay, and documents that are immaterial to the fact in question.<sup>104</sup> Plaintiff's vague and conclusory argument is made even more incredible in light of IGRC Supervisor Berlin's sworn statement denying that Plaintiff ever orally complained to her about his (allegedly) defective bunk bed, or that she told him that the matter was not grievable.<sup>105</sup>

2. Estoppel

Defendants have preserved their affirmative defense of non-exhaustion by raising it in their Answer. (Dkt. No. 17, ¶ 29 [Defs.' Answer]) Moreover, no evidence (or even an argument) exists that any Defendant is estopped from raising this defense because of his or her actions inhibiting Plaintiff's exhaustion of remedies; Plaintiff merely argues that a non-party to this action (the IGRC Supervisor) advised him that his allegedly defective bunk bed was not a grievable matter.

3. “Special Circumstances” Justifying Failure to Exhaust

Finally, Plaintiff provides no evidence that “special circumstances” exist justifying his failure to exhaust his available administrative remedies. Plaintiff alleges that, on several occasions during the relevant time period, he made oral complaints about his allegedly defective bunk bed to various employees of Greene C.F., including Defendants Woods and Belarge. For the sake of argument, I will set aside the vagueness of this allegation, its incredibility given numerous other inconsistencies and improbabilities in Plaintiff's papers, and its total lack of support by any corroborating evidence. The problem with Plaintiff's reliance on this allegation is that, even if it were true, it would not justify Plaintiff's failure to file a written grievance about his bunk bed.

Plaintiff was 51 years old at the time of this incident; he had been incarcerated in several New York State correctional facilities before the incident; and he had even attended a year of law school.<sup>106</sup> He admits that, at the time of the incident, he was familiar with the grievance process at Greene C.F.<sup>107</sup> Indeed, he had filed grievances immediately before and during this very time period.<sup>108</sup> Simply stated, it would have been unreasonable for Plaintiff to believe that he could fulfill the grievance requirement--which included a requirement that the IGRC's decision be appealed to the Greene C.F. Superintendent and then to CORC before exhaustion had occurred--by making some oral complaints to various passers by, whomever they might be.

No. 48, Part 7 [Defs. Reply, attaching grievance dated 8/7/02, about mail room, and appeal from decision regarding that grievance].)

As a result of Plaintiff's failure to exhaust his available administrative remedies, I recommend that his Eighth Amendment claim be dismissed.

E. Whether Plaintiff Has Failed to Establish (or Even State) a Fourteenth Amendment Due Process Claim

In their memorandum of law, Defendants argue that Plaintiff's due process claim (which is based on the manner in which his disciplinary hearing was conducted, and which sought damages only and not injunctive relief) is not cognizable because a judgment in his favor would necessarily imply the invalidity of his disciplinary conviction (which resulted in a loss of good-time credits and thus affected the overall length of Plaintiff's confinement) and Plaintiff has not established that that conviction has been reversed, expunged, or invalidated. (Dkt. No. 37, Part 25 at 10-11 [Defs.' Mem. of Law, citing, inter alia, Heck v. Humphrey, 512 U.S. 477 (1994) and Edwards v. Balisok, 520 U.S. 641 (1997)].) Liberally construed, Plaintiff's response papers argue (without any legal support) that, even though Plaintiff's loss of his good-time credits had not been invalidated on appeal, for Defendants to obtain summary judgment "they must prove their innocence beyond a shadow of a reasonable doubt," which (he argues) they have not done. (Dkt. No. 42, Part 2 at 10-13 [Plf.'s Response].)

I reject Plaintiff's argument, and specifically his proffered legal standard on this motion for summary judgment. Under the circumstances, Defendants have met their modest threshold burden with regard to this issue.<sup>109</sup> To avoid dismissal on summary judgment grounds, Plaintiff

Indeed, the evidence shows (and Plaintiff concedes) that (1) Plaintiff's disciplinary conviction affected the overall length of Plaintiff's confinement by resulting in a loss of good-time, and (2) his disciplinary conviction was not reversed, expunged, or invalidated.<sup>111</sup>

As a result, I recommend that Plaintiff's Fourteenth Amendment due process claim be dismissed.

F. Whether Plaintiff Has Failed to Establish (or Even State) a Claim for Conspiracy

In their memorandum of law, Defendants argue that Plaintiff has failed to establish (or even state) a claim for conspiracy because (1) such a claim falls not under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 but 42 U.S.C. § 1985, which applies specifically to conspiracies, (2) to succeed on a conspiracy claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1985, Plaintiff must allege and show “a meeting of the minds,” and (3) Plaintiff has not alleged and shown such a meeting of the minds but has offered mere speculative and conclusory allegations of conspiracy, see, e.g., Dkt. No. 5, ¶¶ 21-22 (Am. Compl.). (Dkt. No. 37, Part 25 at 8-9 [Defs.’ Mem. of Law].) Liberally construed, Plaintiff’s response argues that the evidence does establish such a meeting of the minds because (1) in their affidavits, Defendants Woods, Antonelli, and Belarge all swear that they met to plan a strategy regarding Plaintiff, and (2) that strategy clearly violated DOCS’ policies and procedures, which never involve a group of high-ranking officials (such as a deputy superintendent, captain, and sergeant) meeting to plan a strategy regarding an inmate, but which involve merely letting a disciplinary charge be filed and decided by a hearing officer. (Dkt. No. 42, Part 2 at 7-8 [Plf.’s Response].)

I agree with Defendants largely for the reasons stated, and based upon the cases cited, in their memorandum of law. (Dkt. No. 37, Part 25 at 8-9 [Defs.’ Mem. of Law].) Plaintiff’s attempted conspiracy claim, which is asserted under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, should actually be asserted under 42 U.S.C. § 1985. See Webb v. Goord, 340 F.3d 105, 110 (2d. Cir. 2003) (construing Section 1983 claim styled as “Conspiracy to Violate Civil Rights” as Section 1985 claim). To maintain an action under Section 1985, a plaintiff “must provide some factual basis supporting a meeting of the minds, such that defendants entered into an agreement, express or tacit, to achieve the unlawful end.” Webb, 340 F.3d at 110 [internal quotation marks and citations omitted]. Where a plaintiff does not provide such a factual basis, but only conclusory, vague or general allegations, such a conspiracy claim fails. Id. (dismissing conclusory allegation “that any such meeting of the minds occurred among any or all of the defendants”); Boddie v. Schneider, 105 F.3d 857, 862 (2d. Cir. 1997) (dismissal of “conclusory, vague or general allegations of conspiracy to deprive a person of constitutional rights" is proper).

Here, Plaintiff's conspiracy claim is conclusory, vague and general. It is uncontested that, at some point between August 5, 2002, and August 31, 2002, a meeting took place between Defendant Woods and Defendant Belarge, and a meeting took place between Defendant Belarge and Defendant O'Donnell, and that the purpose of both meetings was to discuss Plaintiff. (See, supra, Statement of Fact Nos. 25-26.) The issue is whether the purpose of that meeting was "to achieve an unlawful end" or to simply investigate whether Plaintiff had violated prison rules.

Defendants offer evidence that the purpose of the meeting was to lawfully investigate Plaintiff, and Plaintiff has offered no evidence to the contrary. Plaintiff merely argues that DOCS' policies and procedures would never involve a group of high-ranking officials (such as a deputy superintendent, captain, and sergeant) meeting to discuss a Plaintiff. Even if Plaintiff had made this assertion in an affidavit or declaration rather than in a memorandum of law, I would have difficulty imagining how Plaintiff (despite his legal training and considerable experience as an inmate) could possibly have personal knowledge of such a fact. Furthermore, as a matter of common sense, it seems to me that where (as here) an inmate has made a mysterious representation to a deputy superintendent implying that he has possession of a deceased inmate's legal materials, it would be entirely conceivable (and appropriate) for the deputy superintendent to initiate an investigation of the matter, which investigation would involve lawful meetings with subordinates.

In any event, I need not base my recommendation on Plaintiff's lack of personal knowledge or on my common sense: the fact is that Plaintiff has adduced absolutely no evidence in support of his vague and conclusory allegation that Defendants Woods, Belarge and O'Donnell entered into an agreement to achieve an unlawful end. As a result, I recommend that the Court dismiss Plaintiff's conspiracy claim.

G. Whether Defendants Are Protected by Qualified Immunity

In their memorandum of law, Defendants argue that they are entitled to qualified immunity because they could not have reasonably known that their conduct was in violation of a clearly established statutory or constitutional right. (Dkt. No. 37, Part 25 at 17 [Defs.' Mem. of Law].) Liberally construed, Plaintiff's response argues (without citing any evidence) that, under the circumstances, any reasonable person would have reasonably known their conduct was violating Plaintiff's clearly established constitutional rights. (Dkt. No. 42, Part 2 at 15-17 [Plf.'s Response].)

Again, I must reject Plaintiff's conclusory argument. "Once qualified immunity is pleaded, plaintiff's complaint will be dismissed unless defendant's alleged conduct, when committed, violated 'clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would have known.'" Williams, 781 F.2d at 322 (quoting Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 815 [1982]). Regarding the issue of whether a particular right was clearly established, courts in this circuit consider three factors:

- (1) whether the right in question was defined with 'reasonable specificity'; (2) whether the decisional law of the Supreme Court and the applicable circuit court support the existence of the right in question; and (3) whether under preexisting law a reasonable defendant official would have understood that his or her acts were unlawful.

Jermosen v. Smith, 945 F.2d 547, 550 (2d Cir. 1991) (citations omitted), cert. denied, 503 U.S. 962 (1992).<sup>112</sup> Regarding the issue of whether a reasonable person would have known he was violating such a clearly established right, this “objective reasonableness”<sup>113</sup> test is met if “officers of reasonable competence could disagree on [the legality of defendant’s actions].” Malley v. Briggs, 475 U.S. 335, 341 (1986); see also Malsh v. Correctional Officer Austin, 901 F. Supp. 757, 764 (S.D.N.Y. 1995) (citing cases); Ramirez v. Holmes, 921 F. Supp. 204, 211 (S.D.N.Y. 1996). As the Supreme Court explained, [T]he qualified immunity defense . . . provides ample protection to all but the plainly incompetent or those who knowingly violate the law. . . . Defendants will not be immune if, on an objective basis, it is obvious that no reasonably competent officer would have concluded that a warrant should issue; but if officers of reasonable competence could disagree on this issue, immunity should be recognized.

Malley, 475 U.S. at 341. Furthermore, courts in the Second Circuit recognize that “the use of an ‘objective reasonableness’ standard permits qualified immunity claims to be decided as a matter of law.” Malsh, 901 F. Supp. at 764 (citing Cartier v. Lussier, 955 F.2d 841, 844 [2d Cir. 1992] [citing Supreme Court cases]).

Here, based on my liberal construction of all of Plaintiff’s motion papers and response papers, I will assume, for the sake of argument, that Plaintiff is claiming he had, among others, <sup>113</sup> See Anderson v. Creighton, 107 S.Ct. 3034, 3038 (1987) (“[W]hether an official protected by qualified immunity may be held personally liable for an allegedly unlawful official action generally turns on the ‘objective reasonableness of the action.’”) (quoting Harlow, 457 U.S. at 819); Benitez v. Wolff, 985 F.2d 662, 666 (2d Cir. 1993) (qualified immunity protects defendants “even where the rights were clearly established, if it was objectively reasonable for defendants to believe that their acts did not violate those rights”).

the following rights: (1) a right to have Defendant Holt take control of Inmate Alcivar's legal materials when Plaintiff offered those materials to Defendant Holt, and to later acknowledge his failure to take control of those materials; (2) a right to have Defendant Woods personally visit Plaintiff in his "cube," and not launch a disciplinary investigation against him, following Plaintiff's notes to Defendant Woods; (3) a right to have Defendants Belarge and O'Donnell not open or read Plaintiff's correspondence to and from Inmate Alcivar's two daughters, following Plaintiff's notes to Defendant Woods; (4) a right to have Defendant Antonelli recuse himself based on the (alleged) fact that Plaintiff and Defendant Antonelli, one week before the disciplinary hearing, had had an "encounter" regarding the conditions of the equipment in the prison mess hall; and (5) a right to be either transferred to a new cell in SHU, or provided with a new bunk bed in SHU, immediately upon making an oral complaint about his bunk bed to Defendants Woods, Belarge, O'Donnell, Antonelli and/or Holt (or upon the observations of that bunk bed by those Defendants).

As an initial matter, it is unclear to me that any of these rights were "clearly established" in the summer and fall of 2002 (or are clearly established now). In any event, even if these rights were clearly established, it appears entirely reasonable to me for Defendants to have concluded that their treatment of Plaintiff did not violate these rights (or any rights). Simply stated, I can find no evidence in the record that Defendants Holt, Woods, Belarge, O'Donnell or Antonelli did anything wrong. At the very least, officers of reasonable competence could have disagreed as to the lawfulness of Defendants' actions..

As a result, even if the Court does not dismiss all of Plaintiff's claims for the reasons stated earlier in this Report-Recommendation, I recommend that the Court dismiss all of Plaintiff's claims based on qualified immunity.

H. Plaintiff's Motion for Partial Summary Judgment

Based on the above reasons, I find that Plaintiff's motion for partial summary judgment—which (at best) contains arguments regarding the issues discussed above—is without merit. I reach this conclusion for the independent reason that Plaintiff's Rule 7.1 Statement of Material Facts (Dkt. No. 38, Part 2) generally does not contain any citations to the record; and, to the extent that Rule 7.1 Statement does contain citations to the record, the record generally does not actually support the facts asserted. See N.D.N.Y. L.R. 7.1(a)(3) (“Failure of the moving party to submit an accurate and complete Statement of Material Facts shall result in a denial of the motion.”) [emphasis in original].

As a result, I recommend the denial of Plaintiff's motion for partial summary judgment.

ACCORDINGLY, it is

RECOMMENDED that Defendants' motion for summary judgment (Dkt. No. 37) be GRANTED; and it is further

RECOMMENDED that Plaintiff's motion for partial summary judgment (Dkt. No. 38) be DENIED.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1) and Local Rule 72.1(c), the parties have ten days within which to file written objections to the foregoing report. Such objections shall be filed with the Clerk of the Court. FAILURE TO OBJECT TO THIS REPORT WITHIN TEN DAYS WILL PRECLUDE APPELLATE REVIEW. Roldan v. Racette, 984 F.2d 85, 89 (2d Cir. 1993) (citing Small v. Sec'y of Health and Human Svcs., 892 F.2d 15 [2d Cir. 1989]); 28 U.S.C. § 636(b); Fed. R. Civ. P. 6(a), 6(e), 72.
